NSTAR's EPUT Program

representatives will deliver a presentation on Wednesday, January 8 at 12:00 noon in the CCRC You must sign up on Naviance to attend the info session.
Students can earn an Associate of Science degree with a focus on Electric Power Utility Technology in two years at Bunker Hill Community College in partnership with NSTAR.

Students will need to pass the College Placement Test (Accuplacer) and a physical/endurance test to qualify. After completion of this program students are employed as overhead line workers, underground & substation technicians and are qualified for additional training in Power Systems. Starting salaries after completion are in the $40,000+/year range. This is an excellent opportunity for students who like to be physically active, deal with challenges, work outdoors and like to solve problems using mathematical information.
